Physician Notes:

Mia reported complaints of mild chest congestion and persistent dry cough for one week. She denied fever, chills, or shortness of breath. On examination, lungs were clear to auscultation, and vitals were stable. Diagnosed with upper respiratory tract infection, likely viral in nature. Advised supportive care including rest, fluids, and humidified air. Prescribed Dextromethorphan 10ml every 6 hours as needed for cough. No antibiotics. Patient instructed to follow up if symptoms persist beyond 10 days or worsen significantly.
